Lone Highwayman.

He is Cleverly Captured at Republic, Michigan.

AND CONFESSES TO HIS CRIMES.

He Graphically Tells How He Held Up the Milwaukee and Northern Train and the Wisconsin Central—Great Fear That He Will Be Lynched When Taken to Bessemer.

ISHPENING, Mich., Sept. 2.—Reinhard Holshay, the highwayman and train robber, who has operated in northern Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan for the last eight months, has been captured at Republic, a mining town, twenty miles west of the city, early Saturday morning, by Marshal Glade, of that village, assisted by E. E. Weiser, a justice of the peace.

The highwayman arrived in Republic Friday night. He registered at the public hotel. The son of the proprietor noticed that the man talked very closely with the description of the Gogebic stage robber, and informed the village marshal of his suspicions. The room where he slept was watched during the night, and in the morning he ate breakfast and paid his bill, remarking that he wished to leave town on the first train. Directions were given him, and he started for the depot, followed by the marshal and Mr. Weiser.

He apparently noted that he was being followed, and quickened his pace. Just before reaching the depot Marshal Glade stepped in front of him and told him to consider himself under arrest. Quicker than thought the outlaw pulled revolver from his pocket, but it was gunned by the marshal. A second revolver was drawn with his left hand, but the officer succeeded in hitting him over the head with his "billy" before he could shoot. Weiser then came to the marshal's assistance, and after a desperate resistance he was overpowered and taken to the jail.

Examination of his pockets brought out, in addition to the forty-four and thirty-eight caliber revolvers captured by the marshal, three gold watches and three pocket-books, one of which bore on the flap the name of A. G. Fleischbein. This book, containing $20, and one of the watches found on him, were what he obtained by the cold-blooded murder of Bunker Fleischbein near Lake Gogebic last Monday. Another pocket-book contained promissory notes and other valuable papers. There was no name on it, but it was evidently the property of J. J. Low, of St. Paul. The man was questioned and admitted that he was the robber of the Gogebic coach, and that he murdered Fleischbein.

At noon he was put aboard the train, accompanied by the marshal and a host of deputies, and taken to the county jail at Marquette. At every station on the road there were crowds watching for him. There was some talk of lynching, but the mob lacked capable leaders, and no attempt at lynching was made. At Ishpeming 2,000 people assembled at the depot and on the streets adjacent. Holshay went to the window of the car and with great sangfroid bowed to the mob outside.

The highwayman is not over five feet seven inches in height, and is of slender build, probably weighing not over 135 pounds. His hair is light, and had evidently not known brush or comb for a week or more. A mustache of light color adorns his upper lip. He wore a check coat, of woolen material, light striped pantaloons and a brown lumberman shirt, with rough shoes, such as are affected by woodsmen. His appearance was rather prepossessing, but was marred by the low and sloping forehead, which gave sure evidence of vicious tendencies.

Holshay is about 27 years of age, and with a decided German accent. His operations were begun in Shawano county last winter, when he held up the stage coach several times, merely rifling the mail pouches of registered mail. When the government inspectors made it too hot for him he was hid by friends, and next appeared as a train robber at Ellis Junction. From there he was again unheard of until Aug. 7, when he robbed the Wisconsin Central sleeper, but was interrupted by the porter, who fired at him. He leaped from the train into the darkness, and was not again heard of until the stage robbery of last week. On that occasion he killed Bunker Fleischbein and wounded a Minneapolis man named Makreher. The latter fired four shots at him at five feet range, but did not touch him. Holshay then struck into the forest, and it is supposed that he was heading for the Mackinaw division of the South Shore line, where there would have been an excellent field for plying his work.

Sheriff Foley, of Gogebic county, will take his prisoner back at once on a special train. Unless the officers there show rare nerve, Holshay's earthly career will come to a full stop before Monday night. Michigan does not hang its murderers, and there would be no very rigid investigation if he should accidentally become suspended from a convenient tree somewhere near the Gogebic county court house at Bessemer.

Holshay Makes a Confession.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 2.—Bandit Holshay, long the terror of the northern sections of Michigan and Wisconsin, paced up and down a cell in the strong jail of Marquette county yesterday until 5:30 o'clock, when he was placed in a special couch bound for Bessemer. The prisoner has confessed to all his crimes and made the following statement to the two officers who captured him:

"I did hold up the Milwaukee and Northern train. I don't just remember the date. I got a hand of about $50. I boarded the train at Maple Valley. I went through the train and spotted such men as I thought would be likely to have money. I then walked back and the first man I held up was the brakeman. I then held up a passenger and got $30 out of him. I also held up several other passengers and got small amounts. I had to take what they gave and as I could not search them as I was playing a lone hand. I also got a few watches but none of them were good for much. I did not have a sack to collect the 'bootie' in. I held my gun in one hand and received the donations with the other. I got off at Ellis Junction and took to the woods. I also held up the Wisconsin Central railroad train. I think it was Aug. 7 or 8. I got only a small amount in cash. I got a few watches, two of which you have taken from me. The black pocket-book found on me was taken from a passenger on the Wisconsin Central train. You will find a $20 note and a lot of cards, which I think gives the passenger's name. I have done several other little jobs, but these don't concern you, and will do no good to tell, as they did not amount to much. I commenced business in this section some time this spring."

Very few people in Marquette paid any attention to the fact of the bandit's arrest, and there was not a particle of excitement. What will be done in Bessemer time only can tell, but a lynching bee is not imminent.

OVER NIAGARA FALLS.

Cartiste D. Graham Successfully Makes His Long Contemplated Trip.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Very early Sunday morning it was reported on the street that C. D. Graham had made his contemplated trip over the Horseshoe Falls. Less than a dozen are willing to testify that the trip was squarely made, while the barrel which could be seen in the eddy below the falls, where a boat could hardly reach, is offered CARTISTE D. GRAHAM, ed as evidence. Graham, who is in bed at Horn's hotel, and some of the party who claim to have seen the trip, tells the story as follows: The barrel which is the one in which he made his trip through the whirlpool rapids last Sunday a week ago, was taken across the bridge about 3 o'clock in the morning and launched just below Chippewa creek. Considerable work had been done on the barrel since it was used last in the way of padding, etc. Two sandbags had also been strapped to the bottom on the inside.

The barrel was towed out into the river by Garry Staley and Andrew Harn, reputable citizens of Niagara Falls. The main hole was packed to make it air tight, and when the cover was shut down it was fastened on the inside, and two bars placed over it and secured by a spring lock.

At 6:40 the barrel was cut loose, and after taking a passage similar to the one of two weeks ago, was seen to pass over the falls about 200 feet from the shore at 7:10 o'clock. It was out of sight a little over a minute, and came out from under the falls right side up and drifted into one of the eddys. Elmer Jones, an expert swimmer, swam out and brought in one of the lines attached, and with the assistance of Mr. Cahill pulled the craft ashore, when it was opened about 7:30 o'clock having been closed about fifty minutes.

Graham says of his trip: "The ride through the rapids is as nothing compared with it. The rapids before reaching the brink and which look so small from the shore are not at all pleasant. I could not realize just when I reached the brink, for it seemed as though I must have been dazed; but I experienced the falling sensation and knew I was going feet first. The noise no man will ever be able to describe. I realized nothing after that until something struck the barrel, and I could hear some one call out. 'Graham, are you alive?' I had hardly strength to answer back, and not enough to undo the fastening on the inside. So I begged them to break the barrel to pieces and get me out, but they only broke off the main-hole cover. I have got all I ever want out of Niagara Falls, and I don't think I ever want to hear them roar again."

Several flesh bruises were shown, and a physician has attended him.

A My Terrible Death.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—Dr. Ferre, one of the most prominent young physicians in the city, was found dead in his room Sunday morning. He was drinking heavily Saturday night, and before going to his room entered the dispensary office and took a glass of whisky. Sunday morning the woman who takes care of his room found Ferre dead, and a Miss Waldron, of this city, standing over him. She said she had returned to the city Saturday night from Green castle, and had given Ferre her check, asking that he have her baggage sent up to her. Sunday morning she had called at the office and found him dead. Whether it is a case of suicide or not will be developed by the coroner's inquest. Ferre was engaged to be married, but his mother objected to the match, and this is said to have preyed heavily upon his mind.

Chief John Grass, of the Black Feet Nation,

BELIEVED TO BE POISONED.

Adherents of Sitting Bull Accused of Doing the Deed—A General Uprising Among the Sioux Expected Which Will Exterminate Sitting Bull and His Band.

FORT YATES, N. D., Sept. 2.—At no time since the bloody that for a time he and his drivers were in imminent danger of losing their lives. About 4:30 o'clock in the morning a large reflection was seen on the line between Algiers and Jefferson Parish. An alarm of fire was turned in. The Algiers fire department started for the scene and found a large number of men armed with muskets, etc., and a negro church on fire. There was no water at hand and the church was entirely consumed.

Several negroes, who claimed to have formed a part of the ex-slave party, being interviewed, stated that when the train was nearing the Goldsboro depot it was fired on by men who were secreted along the line of the railroad track; that when the shooting commenced the train was yet in motion, and as soon as it stopped a general stampede took place.

Where the shooting occurred is not a thickly settled place. All those living in close proximity to the depot, when interviewed, said they heard the shots but do not know who did the shooting, nor the origin of the trouble. It is very difficult to locate a single person who witnessed the beginning of the shooting, the police being the only ones that claim to have accurate knowledge on the subject.

Ben. Watkins, colored, living in Goldsboro, was shot while lying in bed at his home about 5 a.m. by some unknown person, who fired through the window. The ball wounded him in the breast and both arms and hands. Some of his fingers had to be amputated, and his condition is serious. Watkins says he knew nothing of the riot, and does not know why anyone should shoot him.

The list of casualties by the riot is as follows: William Miller, white, shot in the face, serious; Ed. Levy, colored, shot through the arm; wife of Elder Fleming, colored, shot through the shoulder, serious; Mary Carroll, colored, shot through the foot; Ben. Watkins, shot in the hands and breast, serious.

The Times-Democrat has statements from both whites and blacks, from which the following summary is made: There were about 500 negroes on the train, about half of the number being women and children. About the time the train stopped two or three shots were fired, causing a panic among the ex-slaves, who threw themselves from the train pell-mell, and ran in all directions, under a brisk fusilade from rifles, shot guns and revolvers. The scene was lighted up by flames from a burning house on the levee, and by this light the negroes made their way rapidly as possible toward the street car track, down which most of them fled. The light also enabled the firing party to take good aim.

The stories as to the origin of the trouble vary widely. The negroes say that a large body of armed men were awaiting the arrival of the train, and that while the negro Protection and Trusts.

The official organ of the American Iron and Steel Association has this to say of trusts:

The newspaper which undertakes to make light of their evil tendencies or to defend their methods is therefore a public enemy, and it fails under the very natural suspicion of having been paid to advance the interests of monopolists. More particularly is that newspaper to be suspected which advocates protection to home industry in one column and in another defends trusts. The protective policy is absolutely at war with all trusts, since the very aim and essence of protection is the encouragement of competition that prices may be reduced; whereas the object of trusts is to restrict competition and to artificially and arbitrarily advance prices.

This note of alarm from a highly protected industry is as significant in its way as was the declaration of the Iowa Republicans in favor of protection "where it does not foster trusts or trade conspiracies." It is due to a sense of danger ahead for the trust-fostering tariff.

The "very aim and essence of protection" is to enable the home manufacturer to charge more for his product than he would be able to do without it. If this is not the effect of a duty then it fails to "protect." The direct effect of this system of bounties is to stimulate an artificial increase of the production thus favored. Money-makers are anxious to share in the profits from over-charging. The natural result is over-production, and this leads to a trust or other combination to "restrict competition and to artificially and arbitrarily advance prices."

Protection favors this by shutting out or restricting foreign imports, leaving the home market at the mercy of the conspirators. And thus the tariff becomes the "foster-mother of trusts."

The truth of all this has been a hundred times established. It is illustrated just now in the operations of the sugar trust, the white lead trust, the jute-bagging and twine trusts, the linseed-oil trust and a score of other tariff-promoted "trade conspiracies." The campaign of education proceeds at a rapid pace.—New York World.

THE Pendleton Democrat is a four-year-old, and it is a healthy looking youngster

THERE was an increase in the public debt in July and the showing for August is as bad, all from the heavy expenditures for pensions. Republicans, of course, are trying to shift the responsibility onto the Democrats, but they may as well own up, with the record of extravagance in the Pension Department before the people.

THE Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette says:

The surplus in the Treasury September 1 will be about $10,000,000. One year ago it was $107,000,000.

A year ago Republican journals wouldn't admit the surplus amounted to the enormous sum of $107,000,000. In their opinion, all during the campaign last fall, the surplus was an insignificant thing. But their talk then was to hoodwink the voters.

THE Republicans of Virginia pledge their "sympathy and succor" to the "disabled ex-Confederates, or the widows and orphans of dead Confederate soldiers." Foraker's platform in Ohio does not contain any pledge of that sort, simply for the reason there are no ex-Confederate voters in the Buckeye State. It is easy to see what Malone and his gang in Virginia had in view when they adopted such a resolution.

THE Republicans of Adams County, Ohio, at their convention last Saturday, nominated the following ticket: Representative, W. D. Blair, who was a candidate two years ago for re-election, and was defeated by J. W. Shinn; W. R. Mahaffee; Treasurer, Peter Wickersham; Sheriff, F. M. Lang; Commissioner, James Crissman; Infirmary Director, Wm. Graham.

Resolutions were adopted indorsing the State platform and Foraker's administration. Congressman A. C. Thompson sat in the convention, but received no indorsement. What's the matter with Thompson?

THE awful suggestion is made that Brown-Sequard's elixir of life may be administered to our vast army of pensioners. The country is grateful to its defenders and wants to treat them liberally, but the prospects that they may live two or three hundred years, drawing their pensions every quarter day with all the vigor of youth, is enough to turn the hair of the taxpayer gray. No; if the pensioners are inoculated, the rest of us must have a double dose.—New York Tribune.

The Tribune is the leading Republican paper in the country, but one might infer from the above that it believes the pension business is being carried too extremes. If Tanner and his gang run things a few years longer the hair of the taxpayers may not turn gray, but the taxpayers will be heard from.

Railway News.

The Big Four is so pressed for power that the engines which haul the express trains are now making 50 percent greater mileage than they have been making in times past.

General Superintendent Miller, of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh, said that on every division of the Southwestern system it was impossible for the company to furnish cars to move the business offered.

In all the history of railroading in Indiana such a quantity of freight was never discernable as at the present time. There is a greater quantity of foreign freight to be moved this fall than the lines can handle without additional rolling stock.

The statement of the business of all lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company east of Pittsburgh and Erie for July, 1889, as compared with the same month in 1888, shows an increase in gross earnings of $419,262, an increase in expenses of $162,018, an increase in net earnings of $257,245.

C. P. Huntington has lately bought a large boundary of land in Lawrence County, this State. This land lies on the Big Sandy, just above where the Chattooga crosses to the opposite side of the river. The fact that Mr. Huntington is not only investing in a railroad, but lands, on the Big Sandy is regarded as significant, and a great railroad project through that vastly wealthy section would surprise no one at any day.

Opening of Sulphur Glen Hotel.

One of the pleasant events of this season was the opening of the hotel at Sulphur Glen Springs, near Esculapio, under the management of Mr. I. N. Walker. The hotel is situated in one of nature's most beautiful valleys, about twelve miles south of Vanceburg. In the mountains surrounding the place are found several springs, from which flow in abundant quantities the finest water, the analysis of which shows it to contain iron, sulphur, magnesia, and other minerals, whose medicinal properties are unsurpassed. The hotel has all the modern improvements and conveniences, and the table, under the supervision of Mr. Julius Bertsch, the king caterer of Newport, is second to none in the State.

Among those present at the opening were: Colonel R. W. Nelson, Misses Minnie and Nina Brazier, Miss Carrie Taliadro and daughters, Misses Katie and Anna, Mr. Wm. H. Stone and J. K. Stone and wife and daughter, of Newport; Colonel A. R. Fashion Notes.

[New York Evening Post.]

Primrose yellow and silver gray are fashionably combined, both in dress and millinery.

Embroidery and braidings will still be largely used on stylish autumn gowns, but more in separate special designs than in continuous patterns.

Nearly all skirts and corsages are arranged with a double effect—an outer skirt over a different inner one, and an outside corsage over one beneath; this in contrast, or of a deeper shade.

Some of the autumn dress skirts are arranged so as to give the appearance of redingote or polonaise, though in reality the bodice is separate from the basques, which fall below the waist, the division being concealed beneath some sort of girdle. This style is much more easy to make than a fitted coat. Other models show a front like a Spencer jacket, and this cut away over a waistcoat finished with deep pocket-flaps at the side that are as wide and deep as many of the French basque pieces. At the back the drapery falls straight, with wide bands of rich passementerie down each side, matching those on the Spencer jacket.

Mr. W. L. Killpatrick, one of the Bulletin's subscribers, writes from Mt. Sterling that he has failed to get his paper several times this year and when he does get it, it is often "two or three days behind time." For the past two weeks he has not received it at all.

DAVE McMULLEN caught a twelve-pound fish with a pole and line at the wharf-boat yesterday morning. It was a splendid specimen of the German carp. A dip-net had to be used in landing it. McMullen sold the fish for $1.00 to barber Dan Manns, who says he made $4.00 on his purchase.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL.

Dedication of the New Hall at Washington Largely Attended—Services by Bishop Maes.

The dedication of St. Mary's School and Hall at Washington took place yesterday afternoon, according to previous announcement. Notwithstanding it was very dusty and warm, large crowds were present from all parts of the county. The Maysville delegation was a big one, consisting in part of St. Patrick's Benevolent Society, Father Mathew's Total Abstinence Society, Knights of St. John and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, accompanied by Haucke's Reed and Brass Band. The societies marched from St. Patrick's Hall on Limestone street to the junction of the Lexington pike and Fourth street, where wagons were in waiting to convey them to Washington. On reaching the town they formed again and marched through the place to the hall.

The services were commenced with a hymn by the choir of St. Patrick's Church, after which the dedicatory ceremonies were gone through with by Rt. Rev. Bishop Maes, of Covington, followed by a short address by Rev. Father O'Brien, of Cincinnati, which was listened to attentively by those who were fortunate enough to be within hearing distance. Bishop Maes closed with a few appropriate remarks, thanking the people for the interest they had manifested in the building of the school and encouraging them to give their children a thorough education. After the Bishop was through speaking, the band rendered a few appropriate selections and the assembly was dismissed.

The building is a frame structure situated in the south end of Washington, on an elevation just high enough to give a good view of most of the town. The Catholic people of Washington are under many obligations to Rev. Father Bealer for this fine school in which to educate their children. He has worked hard from the start, and it has only been through his untiring efforts that the move has been brought to a successful end. He gave the construction of the building his personal attention, and displayed ability as a manager.

Excursion Rates.

Commencing September 5th, the C. & O. Railway Company will make round trip rates between all stations on the Cincinnati division between Cincinnati, O., and Huntington, W. Va. The fare has been greatly reduced, and the excellent train service will enable passengers to travel cheaply between any station and return the same day. This move should be the more appreciated because the reduction is made entirely unsolicited. It is proof that this great corporation is not only abreast with the times, but is anxious to treat its patrons in the most liberal manner.

Last Chance to Visit the Queen City at Low Excursion Rates.

On Sunday, September 15th, the C. and O. Railroad will run a special train to Cincinnati at extremely low rates for the round trip. Good returning either on Sunday or Monday.

Every one should avail themselves of this opportunity to visit the Queen City. The man who cannot afford to lose a day's work can take advantage of this excursion and visit the Zoological Gardens, the finest in the world, and the thousands of other points of interest in the metropolis and be back home early Monday morning, while those who wish to stay longer can extend their visit until Monday night, and take in the greatest spectacular play ever put upon a stage—"Montezuma," or the "Conquest of Mexico."

Stock, Field and Farm.

Chicago now looks for a receipt of 3,000,000 cattle for this year. Last year about 2,600,000 head were received.

The Dwyer brothers have twenty-six two-year-old horses which cost them about $53,000 as yearlings, and there does not seem to be a really first-class one in the lot. They could have purchased Protection for $15,000 a few days before the Junior Champion stakes were run, but were only willing to give $8,000.

The American wheat crop for the current year will be about 500,000,000 bushels, or 80,000,000 more than last year. Under ordinary circumstances this would mean cheaper flour at home and a large surplus to carry over to next year. Put there are short crops elsewhere. This shortage is as follows: Russia, 72,000,000 bushels; Hungary, 36,000,000; Roumania, 8,000,000; Germany, 8,000,000; India, 18,000,000, and South America and Australia, 24,000,000; total, 166,000,000. The increases are: United States, 82,000,000; Canada, 8,000,000; England and France, 32,000,000; Italy, Spain, Belgium, Holland and Algeria, 32,000,000; total, 154,000,000. This shows the world's wheat crop to be about 12,000,000 bushels less than last year, and as the reserves are lower than at that time it seems quite probable that the bulk of our surplus crop will be needed for exports.

GEORGE DURELL has been appointed Assistant District Attorney for the State of Kentucky under George W. Jolly, U. S. Attorney. Durell was Assistant in the office when it was held by Hon. Geo. M. Thomas.

At the Lexington fair Saturday Barker's bay gelding Diamond won the 2:20 trot in straight heats, with ease. The purse amounted to $1,000, 20 per cent of which went to the second horse and 15 per cent to the third.

It is estimated that the public debt statement to be published to-day will show an increase of $1,500,000. This increase is attributed to the fact that during the past month $18,000,000 have been paid out on account of pensions. Nothing like this occurred during Cleveland's administration.

JUDGE G. S. WALL and wife returned from Chicago Saturday night. While there, the Judge attended the American Bar Association and met many of the most distinguished lawyers of the country, David Dudley Field, the President of the Association, being the most prominent. Ex-Senators Trumbull and Doolittle were among those present. The weather was cool and delightful. The city was filled with the "G. A. R." going to and from Milwaukee. Chicagoans are confident they will have the "World's Fair" in 1892. A scheme is now on foot to fill in the lake to the Government break-water, which will give a space of more than 2,000 acres, and be of easy access from the hotels, railroads, steamers &c. Western and Southern Congressman will likely favor Chicago.

The Crisis in London.

Turning Point of the Great Strike Approaching.

A MILLION WORKERS INVOLVED.

No Telling How Many Men Will Join the Dock Laborers—Two Monster Meetings Held, But No Disturbance Occurs. Narrow Escape of an Aeronaut.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—London is awaiting with breathless anxiety the developments of the great strike to-day, when the turning point is expected to be reached. Tremendous pressure has been brought upon the officers of the different trades unions by the leaders of the men now out, to induce them to bring about a general strike of all the workmen in London.

If anything approaching such a general stoppage of work should take place and continue for only a few days, the danger to public safety could scarcely be overestimated. Even in ordinary times the feeling among the working population of the metropolis that they are being oppressed by their employers is sufficiently pronounced, but with this feeling intensified a thousand fold by illness and starvation, and with a million workers, whose only occupation would be to meet and excite one another with the story of their grievances, the police and the military force must be formidable indeed to overawe them desperate with hunger and conscious of their strength of numbers.

It is difficult to give any reliable estimate of the number of workingmen who will join the dock laborers. All the trades have had their meetings and in all cases a conclusion of some sort has been reached, but their leaders are close mouthed and special care has been taken to prevent any hint of their proposed action leaking out. The men as a rule are so anxious to convey the impression that nothing will be done, and this is so entirely opposed to the plan usually pursued of loudly boasting in advance how much will be done, that the conclusion is naturally drawn that something like a general strike has been decided upon and that the leaders are only anxious not to lose the advantage of a thorough and complete surprise. However, this appears to be pure speculation and the day may pass without the dreaded suspension of all industry.

But even if it does not come about in this shape matters are certainly drifting toward such a state. Every day during the past week has seen new additions to the number of striking traders, and the time is ripe for organized workmen to discover grievances never before suspected. Without a doubt there will be isolated strikes involving thousands of workmen, even if the general revolt of labor does not take place, and at the rate of progress made so far, it would not take long to involve the larger part of London's working population in the troubles.

The temper of the men already out, too, is far different than that they displayed a week ago. They no longer allow Burns, their conservative leader, to dictate their policy, and already it is apparent that he will be overruled. The men are growing ugly, threats are frequent of bloody work, and their passions are further inflamed by the slight rise in the price of provisions, which has been the unavoidable outcome of their own action.

The strikers held a monster meeting yesterday morning on the Thames embankment, and at its close marched in procession 30,000 strong to the afternoon meeting at Hyde Park. They carried a great many banners, and bands of music were interspersed at frequent intervals. The contribution boxes were carried along the edge of the procession as on the previous Sunday, and were liberally treated at them by the crowds along the line of march.

The strikers maintain an undaunted front, and profess to be confident of victory, and that soon. Three American vessels arrived in the Thames yesterday, and the American sailors on board were offered three shillings per hour, or six times the pitmanfare for which the strikers are contending, to unload their own vessel. As soon as they understood the situation of affairs they did not ask for moment to make up their minds, but promptly refused to do the work at any price. They were received with loud huzzas by the strikers at their meeting in the morning, and were given the place of honor in the processions.

It is estimated that the great strikers' meeting at Hyde Park in the afternoon, was attended by not less than 150,000 people, almost all of whom were workmen and a large share of these were strikers. The collections for the strikers' relief fund taken up at the different stands, netted quite a handsome sum. An American gentleman stepped up to the stand from which Burns spoke, and volunteered a large donation.

Burns and others of the leaders made speeches in which they urged the men to stand firm and assured them that victory was certain. Resolutions were passed unanimously in favor of continuing the strike until the demands of the men were fully conceded. After the meeting the men dispersed quietly. There was no disorder whatever.

Nearly 5,000 railroad employees met in Darlington yesterday and after some discussion unanimously resolved to go on a strike for shorter hours. In this movement they have the moral support of the entire community, more especially the traveling public whose lives are endangered every day by the reckless overworking of their servants by the railroad companies.

Over 2,000 coolies employed by Parker Lambert as bargemen have joined the strikers and will not go back to work.

The council of the strikers had a prolonged meeting last evening at which every phase of the situation was discussed. They decided to continue the strike.

Perilous Experience of an Aeronaut. LONDON, Sept. 2.—Miss Beaumont, the American parachute performer, while giving an exhibition of her daring at North Shields yesterday, became entangled in the rigging of her air ship, and only saved herself by grasping the lightning rod of a lofty building as she passed it. With one hand in the rigging of her parachute and the other clinging to the lightning rod, she remained suspended in mid-air for a long time, until rescued from her perilous position by men with ladders.

A TORNADO STRIKES TEXAS.

Considerable Property Destroyed but no Lives Lost.

GALVESTON, Tex. Sept. 2.—A destructive tornado swept through the western portion of the city Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, while a slight shower was in progress. It began its course at Avenue and Thirty-ninth street, and proceeded for nearly three miles before its force was spent. Those who saw it describe it as being about fifty feet in width, and of an egg-like form. It moved with lightning rapidity in an undulating swish, carrying away the roofs of houses, stables and frame buildings, tearing up fence posts and scattering loose timber in every direction.

The most serious damage done was to the handsome Queen Anne cottage of E. E. Seixas, a wealthy carriage maker. The edifice was completely wrenched from its foundation and crushed like an eggshell. It is a total wreck, and the costly furniture is but a mass of splinters. Mrs. Seixas and her son, Harry, aged 16, were in the building at the time of the terrific shock. The lady was in the second story, and the son was in the front parlor. When the house collapsed a large piece of plastering struck him on the head, throwing him headlong into the hallway. Although half unconscious from the blow, he heroically rushed up the partially demolished stairway leading to his mother's room, and carried her from the tottering dwelling. Their escape from death is most miraculous.

After leaving the Seixas house, the tornado swept along an open space with houses dotted here and there, and to each more or less damage was done. In passing Gulf Nerdan Bayou, it buried itself for an instant, creating a water-spoat nearly thirty feet high. On the other side of the bayou it carried the stable of Martin Burns fully one hundred feet in the air and then twirled it into atoms. Burns' house was also moved nine inches from its foundation. A cow in a neighboring farm yard was carried in the air about fifty feet and instantly killed on its fall to the ground.

The course of the tornado was in a straight line, running from southeast to northwest. It is the first of its nature that has ever appeared on the island, and thousands of curious spectators have visited the scene of destruction. The total damage cannot be estimated at present. There was no loss of life.

AN OUTRAGE ON THE SEA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Australian papers say that about June 26 the Saeno, a small trading vessel, was boarded by natives at Malaya, and one of them shot Mate Ladden dead, while another beheaded a trader named Cooper, with an ax. Keating, the owner of the vessel, and several other on board, were badly injured, but drove off the natives, killing twelve of them. It is reported that Keating has since died.
